

'Use your imagination Lucy and you will be able to hear their stories...'

Inspired by her Gran's tales of long ago, Lucy sets out on a ride through time, to discover the lively history of the beautiful town of Beechworth.

Carole O'Neill TPTC, BEd, GDip Movement and Dance, GDip Drama, MEd, MACE

Carole lives in Beechworth, Victoria. After a long and varied career as an educator, she is now a lecturer in the School of Educational Studies, La Trobe University, Wodonga. Carole is deeply interested in 'place-based' education, which focuses on children's ability to communicate what is important to them about their environment. She is also passionate about the history of Beechworth, a very special heritage town, and wrote this book to help young readers take an imaginative journey into the past.

Liz Main has a background in drawing, painting and printmaking. She is interested in the beautiful streetscapes of Australian country towns, with their layers of history and closeness to the bush. She has enjoyed the challenge of bringing Beechworth history to life and helping children to 'imagine the past'. She lives in Wagga Wagga, where she pursues her career as art teacher and artist.
